UNPARALLELED SUCCESS OF WHIRLWIND CAMPAIGN $650,000 ALREADY GIVEN

LIMIT RAISED TO A MILLION-AND-A-HALF---GREAT ENTHUSIASM AMONG WORKERS---UNDER-GRADUATES CONTRIBUTE

MONDAY	$334,675
TUESDAY	$313,578
	$648,253
STILL TO COLLECT	$852,747

Only two out of the five days of the campaign have passed. Already more than two-thirds of the sum originally aimed at has been collected. It has been decided to raise the limit from a million dollars to a million and a half. There have been three subscriptions of $100,000, one of $50,000, four of $25,000, and a host of smaller, but no less generous gifts.

Such, in brief, is the tale of the wonderful success with which the Million Dollar Campaign is meeting at the hands of the citizens of Montreal. It is expected that there is a great amount of latent sympathy for the University, which only needed the direct call of need to show itself and to show itself with a force and unanimity exceeding all expectations.

McGill has reason to be proud of her friends. Some have given generously of their wealth for her support. Some again have devoted their time and energy to the campaign. Many have given small amounts according to their means. But the same spirit has pervaded all.

One of the most gratifying features of the campaign has been the large number of comparatively small subscriptions that have been collected. The cry has sometimes been raised that McGill is supported only by a few of the wealthy citizens of Montreal. This is no longer true. Every man who gave $10, $50, $100 to McGill is a true friend who will stick by the University, and whom the University, in its turn, will do its best to please.

There have been steadfast friends of long standing, who have again come forward to answer the call. Among these the names of Dr. Douglas, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reford, and the Molsons stand forth prominently.

The Undergraduates are doing their share. The announcement that the Science men have given $1,100 was greeted with thunderous applause at the lunch in Freeman's Hotel yesterday. The Law men have voted the balance of their caution money, while the men of Arts and Medicine are about to follow suit.

Enthusiastic though the workers are, they realize that much has yet to be done if the full million and a half be reached. But all believe that steady, solid work, combined with the spirit of achievement, will ultimately win the day.

Truly this is a great week for Old McGill.

CONDITIONS OF THE GIFTS.

Dr. Douglas' $100,000 was given on the condition that the full million be raised. There is little doubt of that now.

Mr. and Mrs. Reford's $100,000 given yesterday, is conditional upon the raising of the limit to $1,500,000 and the attainment of that sum.

The Birks' contribution of $100,000 is made up of $25,000 from Mr. Henry Birks to the General Fund and $75,000 from Messrs. W. M., J. H., and Gerald W. Birks equally, to endow the Chair of Metallurgy in the name of their father.

Mr. George E. Drummond's gift of $25,000 is on behalf of the Drummond family, and in memory of Dr. Drummond, the famous "habitant" poet.

Mr. P. S. Ross' gift of $10,000 was for a demonstration ship.

WOODROW WILSON, SIR WM. OSLER and MAYOR GUERIN.

Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey, former head of Princeton University, and probably democratic candidate for President in 1912, writes as follows:

"I am very much interested in what I have learned about the plans for an increased endowment for McGill University and am particularly gratified that the three essential matters of a graduate school should have been fixed upon as the objects to be achieved and supported."

Sir William Osler cabled from London:

"Splendid! For such a cause the citizens should raise two millions. Put me down for five hundred dollars."

Mayor Guerin, who is on the Citizens' Committee, and who has been actively working, said yesterday: "It is certainly the duty of the people of Montreal to see to it that McGill is able to carry on its work to the full and I am confident that they will do it. McGill is a great asset to the city in many ways. The University enhances Montreal's reputation abroad, for its high standing is known and realized throughout the world. It provides first class education for the sons and daughters of our own people at home."

"And there is one thing which McGill is doing and will, I think do to a still larger extent in the future. It is awakening the civic spirit in the people of Montreal. The University played no inconsiderable part in the

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO MEDICALS

A special meeting of the McGill Undergraduate body will be held this afternoon at 5 o'clock sharp in lecture room "A", New Medical Building. The meeting will consider the question of subscribing to the McGill campaign fund in conjunction with our fellow students of Arts, Science and Law.

Mr. T. W. Sutherland, President of the Medical Society, a few days ago interviewed Principal Peterson in this connection. The Principal expressed his opinion that the greatest and most lasting support that the students could give would be to encourage an even greater spirit of unity among the faculties, so that the citizens of Montreal would feel that McGill is not existing as a divided institution, but as one great whole.

of the united Undergraduate body. We hope that at this afternoon's meeting the students of Medicine will comply with this suggestion of the Principal, by discouraging any spirit of faculty rivalry and simply join the general student movement already inaugurated.

We are very glad to be able to report that Professor Gregor, who has been the victim of a rather serious attack of a rheumatic nature is now on the high road to recovery. Professor Gregor's condition is steadily improving and he will in all probability be able to meet his classes next week.

The largest university in the world is the University of Calcutta at Calcutta, India.

It is estimated that Yale has directly and indirectly contributed over three million dollars to New Haven during the last year.

ARTS UNDERGRADS HOLD MEETING

WILL ASSIST IN CAMPAIGN. PERSONAL CANVASS TO BE MADE.

A well attended meeting of the Arts Undergraduates was held in Strathcona Hall at 5 p.m. yesterday to consider the question of a contribution from the students in this faculty towards the million dollar McGill fund. The discussion became rather heated at times, for while the speakers were unanimous in regard to McGill's need and in their willingness to assist the University, there was some disagreement as to the plan that should be adopted in the matter and also as to the ability of the student body to be of any financial by stating briefly its object and ex-assistance.

Mr. Robinson opened the meeting pressed the wish that the meeting would be guided in its decision simply by a feeling of devotion and gratitude for Old McGill and not by a desire to emulate or surpass Science or Medicine. Mr. Matheson then moved that the students as a body instruct the Bursar to appropriate the residual amounts of their caution money for the fund. Mr. Bruneau followed in effective debating style, criticizing Mr. Matheson's motion. Mr. Bruneau contended that while so many McGill institutions such as the "Daily" and "Union" were crippled through lack of financial support, it was surely extremely poor policy for the students to vote away their money in support of undertakings which they necessarily could not materially assist. Mr. Wariner then rose and stated in rebuttal to Mr. Bruneau's statement that the student contributions would be of very little assistance, that the announcement of the decision of the Science Undergraduates had been received by the campaign committee with tremendous enthusiasm. At this stage the debate began to grow rather personal, and a number of the speakers had to be called to order. At length President Robinson managed to get the hot-air artists under control, and the motion was put to a vote. As the fair coeds, who were present in a body voted in favour of the motion, there should have been no question whatever about it. Unfortunately, however, this was not the case and as the meeting was not unanimous, the motion was defeated. The difficulty was solved by an amendment of Mr. Young's that a committee be appointed to make a personal canvass of the students, that all who wished might pledge their caution money, and this motion being carried unanimously, the meeting broke up.

LAW UNDERGRADS CONTRIBUTE TO FUND

The students of the Faculty of Law held a meeting on Monday afternoon and with little or no hesitation decided upon the motion of Mr. Lemessurier, seconded by Mr. Hale, that whatever balance of caution money be left at the end of the year, shall be contributed to the funds of the University.

This sum ought to amount to approximately four-fifths of the total caution money deposited, as law students are not as a rule a very destructive lot; the only deductions that are made are to cover losses sustained by the Library.

The next business brought up was the election of a representative to the Laval law banquet. Mr. Boulanger was unanimously elected and will accordingly journey to Quebec on Thursday of this week.

Mr. Howard who is replacing Mr. Justice Doherty as lecturer on Civil Procedure, opened his course yesterday morning. Mr. Surveyor, who delivers a preliminary course on Procedure to the first year, introduced Mr. Howard to the second and third years. The lectures which thus began so auspiciously on Tuesday, promise to be of great practical value. The students were much pleased when Mr. Howard instructed them on the drafting of pleadings.

President Vincent, of the University of Minnesota, at a recent mass meeting, referred to Yale as an example of fine support of college teams which, he said, had to be acquired in layers.

Compulsory football practice has been instituted at the University of Wisconsin, all freshmen being required to learn the rudiments of the game. No one, however, is compelled to take part in scrimmages.

BILL MURRAY SUSTAINS INJURY

DAILY'S POPULAR EDITOR INCAPACITATED FOR A WEEK---
TWISTED HIS KNEE WHILE PLAYING HANDBALL

An accident occurred yesterday morning, the ultimate results of which should be of interest and concern to every student and well-wisher of McGill. "Bill" Murray, famous for many other attainments, but chiefly known and respected as the Editor of the McGill Daily, while playing hand-ball in the gym., dislocated his knee. As was extremely lucky, a number of men were present by whose combined efforts the knee was successfully "pulled in," but "Bill" is in bed, and expects to be laid up for a week.

The news of the accident quickly spread and telephone calls and inquiries have been pouring into the Daily office, many of them from the R. V. C. If we are any judges of voices, solicitously enquiring of "Bill's" condition.

For the benefit of those who have not already been enlightened, we may say that W. E. G. is lying in bed at 104 Durocher St., the home of Mrs. Stewart where he boards and while being in no pain to speak of, is forced to remain in bed till the inflammation subsides. It may be three days and it may be three weeks. We, from a selfish standpoint, (for his services are invaluable on the paper) and from a friendly standpoint, hope his incarceration will not be long, but meanwhile, as lying alone in bed is not a pleasant condition, any of his friends will find him at 104 Durocher St., receiving from 8 a.m. till 12 p.m., and will be welcomed with open arms if they pay him a visit.

EVILS AND VIRTUES OF WAR DISCUSSED

An unusually high standard of argument and oratory marked last night's debate of the Literary Society. The subject was the one which will be debated by McGill against Varsity in Toronto on Friday, Dec. 1st, as an Inter University debate, viz.---

"Resolved that war is necessary as a means to the advancement of civilization."

Messrs. Hollan and Farthing upheld the resolution, while Messrs. Mathewson and Fisher assumed the negative.

In opening for the affirmative, Mr. Holland delivered a speech fraught with a choice but rapid flow of language in a nicely modulated voice, which made a striking impression upon his audience. He treated the historical aspect of the subject in detail, citing example after example of the wonderful part which war had played as a necessary means to the advancement of civilization. The masterly treatment of the question in the history of the past, followed by a summary of the points registered in his favor, completed a highly pleasing address.

Mr. Mathewson was the first speaker of the negative and portrayed the honours of war in no uncertain terms. He indulged in many anecdotes by way of illustrating his arguments and endeavoured to show how fallacious were the statements of his opponents, and how inconsistent the interpretation they had laid upon the subject. The speaker presented his arguments in a forceful manner and made several remarks in rebuttal of the assertions brought forward by the leader of the affirmative.

Mr. Farthing followed, supporting the resolution. He declared that the negative leader had attached a most arbitrary and unreasonable meaning to the subject. Even admitting that many wars were unjust and had created many evils, yet in the grand sum total it had played a great part as a necessary means to the advancement of civilization in the broadest and best sense. War was absolutely necessary for civilized nations to cope and conquer the aboriginal inhabitants of any country. The speaker's stentorian voice at times rose even beyond that stage, and resounded throughout the hall, the audience being much too small to appreciate it. This speech was one of Mr. Farthing's best efforts yet at the Lit.

Mr. Fisher in a cold, critical and logical address, closed the argument for the negative. Applying his deadly logic to the arguments of his opponents, he attempted to dissect them one by one and refute each in its entirety.

He brought forth many original ideas, reinforced these by copious examples, and made perhaps, the most severely logical speech of the evening. With splendid sequence he marshalled argument after argument to the aid of his side, and attempted to refute many of his opponents' statements. Mr. Fisher laid much emphasis upon certain phases of the meaning and significance of the resolution and adduced evidence to show the reasonableness of his contention.

The leader of the affirmative then replied, reasserting the unreasonable manner in which the negatives had misinterpreted the resolution, and laying his opponents for their alleged unsound arguments. He indulged largely in rebuttal, and succeeded in refuting many of the statements of his opponents by quoting instances to the contrary.

"Chief Justice" Fineberg presided most acceptably and the meeting was favoured with the presence of Miss Hurlburt, principal of the Royal Victoria College, accompanied by a delegation of R. V. C. ladies, which did not fail to provoke a well chosen word of appreciation from the chairman and several of the speakers.

The discussion which followed the debate was varied and interesting, many keen and incisive criticisms being offered.

Mr. Leacock in his own inimitable manner delighted the meeting with a humorous review of the impressions he had gathered during the debate, which contributed greatly to the success of the evening.

The meeting then adjourned.

UNDERGRADUATES OF SCIENCE GIVE ENTHUSIASTIC AND PRACTICAL SUPPORT TO THE CAMPAIGN

OVER $1000 WAS VOTED AT MONDAY'S MEETING—SPLENDID SPIRIT CHARACTERIZES GATHERING

Considerable space has been devoted lately in these columns to the campaign now in progress which has as its ultimate aim the raising of even more than $1,000,000 to be used in maintaining our University and promoting its unrestricted development. While the canvass has been on, to give the many wealthy citizens of Montreal an opportunity of seeing the University at this critical time, some of the governors have been instrumental in bringing about the campaign, have expressed a desire to give the student body also an opportunity of helping along this good work.

The first response to this was given by the Science Undergrad. Society at a special meeting held on Monday afternoon. The meeting was called for the purpose of discussing and passing upon this matter. The large and representative turnout showed that the subject was indeed one of much interest to the students of the Faculty of Science. After considerable favourable discussion a motion was unanimously passed that the Science Undergraduate Society authorize the Bursar to deduct $2.00 from the caution money of each student of Faculty of Science to help the present financial campaign. Mr. T. W. Sutherland, President of the Undergrad. Society in Medicine, was present and seemed confident that the men in his faculty would do their share in showing the people down town that the students "as a whole" were anxious to show in a tangible way that they too, wanted to do something to help the University when in need. He added that, during a recent interview, the Principal had expressed a desire that should the students decide to contribute to this campaign fund, they would do so as a unit rather than as separate organizations. Mr. Sutherland hoped that the various Undergrad. societies might come together in this and put their separate contributions into a common student subscription. The meeting was markedly in sympathy with what he said

The swimming season opened at Penn on Tuesday.

CORRESPONDENCE

The Editor,

The McGill Daily

Dear Sir:—In reply to "Science Senior's" letter, appearing in your issue of the 20th inst., may I be permitted a few words?

Your correspondent states that "at the meeting which passed the resolution to double the Union fee it was distinctly understood that the $10 would be divided—half for the first term and the remainder for the second." So far, your correspondent is quite correct, but he is evidently ignorant of the fact, or has forgotten it, that any change to the constitution which may have been passed by the Union members requires the approval of the Advisory Board ere it can be adopted.

This resolution regarding the fee was submitted to the Advisory Board and approved in so far as the amount of the fee was concerned, but they recommended that this be collected in one sum. At the annual general meeting held on the 23rd October, this recommendation of the Advisory Board was read and approved.

In view of the above, I think "Science Senior" cannot but admit that he has made a mistake in charging those in authority with acting upon their own responsibility, "quite contrary to the emphatically expressed views of the Union Members."

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I am, Yours respectfully,

ALLAN M. STRANG,
President McGill Union

5884 Romaine Pl.
St. Louis, Mo.,
18th Nov. 1911.

Dear Murray:—I have received so much pleasure from the reading of "The Daily" that I could not forbear writing you a few lines to show my appreciation; for I know upon you and your associate editors falls the burden of its preparation—it is always so at McGill—and there is no need to hesitate to show our appreciation of your work.

I sincerely hope "The Daily" will continue, and grow, become in fact, an established feature of the college activities; and even though it is hard work you are certainly doing a great work for the University, in directing and encouraging a growth of a real McGill spirit that will mean a real undergraduate and graduate enthusiasm for everything that is best in our traditions, our present and the great future that is before the

FORMAL OPENING OF HOCKEY SEASON

MASS MEETING IN STRATHCONA HALL TO-DAY

At five o'clock this afternoon a mass meeting of all those interested in hockey will be held in Strathcona Hall.

A large turnout is anticipated and all those who wish to associate themselves more closely with the club either as players or as enthusiastic supporters are requested to be on hand.

This meeting will give the new men a chance to become acquainted with our hockey affairs and the older men a chance to make any suggestions for the improvement of general conditions which they may see fit.

Make this meeting an enthusiastic one and start the season with a rush. We wish to get a line on all new men in college who intend to try for places on the college team and it is these men in particular that we ask to come to the meeting.

BASKETBALL

The basketball season has started. On Saturday night McGill lined up against the M. A. A. in the first match of the City League. An enthusiastic crowd of M. A. A. supporters was present in the McGill gym. to cheer their players. Where was McGill? The class of play was perhaps the best seen for several years at this time of the season. McGill's combination was excellent. Baldwin was the strong man in the combination for McGill while Kennedy did the lion's share of the shooting. The game was ably handled by Mr. Beecher of the Y. M. C. A. The score was very close until a few minutes of final time when McGill pulled ahead with a jump. The final score was 40 to 23 in McGill's favor.

The teams lined-up as follows:

McGill	M. A. A.
G. Kennedy	Home
Ed. Searle	F. G. Kearns
S. G. Baldwin	N. Cameron
S. Twitchell	F. Knubley
G. W. Reid	H. Woods
	L. Earle

The McGill Senior basketball team expect to make a short visit to the States early next week. On account of the limited time at their disposal they will only play St. Lawrence University at Canton, and Potsdam Normal School. However, both the Schools have crack teams and the games will give McGill excellent practice for the Intercollegiate games after Christmas. The line-up for the trip will be announced in a few days. The next Intermediate game will be played on Thursday night at the Railroad Y. M. C. A.

JUNIOR MEDS BEAT FRESHMEN.

The bowling match on Monday evening between Med '13 and Med. '16 terminated in a decisive victory for the Juniors.

The Freshmen had a beautifully balanced team and their team work was splendid.

While the Juniors, though not as well organized, had their "eye" with them, and thus equipped they proceeded to give the Freshmen one or two pointers.

University. Your excellent reports of athletic events have kept me thoroughly in touch with all that has happened, and allowed me, the lone McGill man in this city, to have a small celebration over the results of the track meet; though many a doleful thought over football doings. But I have been really most interested in the editorials which have taken such a firm and intelligent position on all questions affecting university activities and our outside relationships. I see by the Daily that Clearhue got the B. C. Rhodes. I was somewhat surprised having expected that Gibbins would carry it off. I presume you will be a candidate this year for the honor, and would be delighted to hear of your success.

With best wishes for yourself, and for the success of "The Daily," I am, Yours sincerely,

THE LAST CITY CHAMPIONSHIP CONTEST

SEVEN YEARS SINCE MONTREAL HAS CLASHED WITH RED AND WHITE

GAZETTE HAS INTERESTING REMINISCENCES.

Although the City Championship game had to be called off this year the following should prove of interest in view of the fact that it is just seven years since these teams last played. It is to be regretted that relations were not able to be resumed this year and it is to be sincerely hoped that the fixture will become an annual event from 1912 onwards.

It was on November 12, 1904, that the last football game of the city championship was played in Montreal. Teams representing McGill and Montreal were the contenders then as they were this season. The names of the men who composed the teams recall vividly the history of Canadian rugby in the few years immediately preceding the changes in the playing rules which altered so markedly the nature of the game. There were fifteen men a-side then, the flying wing being a regular position, one which is being now revived after long disuse.

In the account of the game in the Gazette of November 16 the fact is mentioned that by miffing a "throw-in" "Don" Malcolm allowed Montreal to get possession of the ball and away for a touch. The "throw-in" has been discarded so long that it has been almost forgotten and deservedly so.

The account of the game is full of praise for the open play of the collegians and speaks of the style as a great improvement on the slow-moving mass playing in the Q. R. F. U. The teams of seven years ago lined up as follows:

Montreal	McGill
Macdonald	Cowan
Craig	Zimmerman
W. Christmas	Hamilton
A. Christmas	McPherson
Gordon	Richards
Lesser	McPhee
Hannaford	Benedict
McAllan	Beckwith
Vittie	Lyons
R. Johnson	Lee
W. Molson	Stephens
R. Molson	Malcolm
G. Burton	Martin
O'Brien	Sharpe

Montreal won the game by a score of 30 to 18—Gazette.

McGILL SENIORS AND INTER-MEDIATES WIN EASILY FROM C. P. R.

McGill won in the swim for the ball and after a neat bit of passing Buckley scored. McGill secured the ball again and shot on C. P. R. goal but Hughes was too good for them. He passed to Stanley, who made a pretty shot but McKay saved for McGill. McKay passed to Lee Smith and after some more pretty passing Frank McGill scored again for McGill. From this stage on the Red and White had easily the best of the play and scored repeatedly. Frank McGill was the greatest goal getter, scoring five, and Buckley, who played a very strong game, was a close second, scoring four. Lee Smith and De Hart played their usual effective game. Stanley starred for C. P. R., scoring their only goal on a beautiful long shot.

Referee—Vernot.
Goal Umpires—J. Falener, D. Levesque.

Time Keepers—A. Farmer, Q. Lacour.

Final Score—McGill 10 C. P. R. 1.

McGill started the scoring when Redmond netted a neat goal. They kept it up Gilchrist scoring second. After the change of ends Pengelly scored again. From now on the scoring was rapid the game at no time being in doubt.

Final Score. McGill 10. C. P. R. 2.

The Cornell Aero Club is actively engaged this year in the study of aeronautics, and has begun its regular classes for the instruction of its members.

The preliminary registration figures for Yale show the total registration for the present season to be 2,224. There is an increase in every department save the Schools of Forestry, Medicine and Law.

ALUMNI SOCIETY

The second regular monthly meeting of the Alumnae Society for the year 1911-12 was held on Tuesday afternoon in the Common Room of the Royal Victoria College.

This Society of the women graduates of McGill University is more regularly organized than any other of the Graduate Societies. It is organized for the three-fold purpose of holding monthly meetings, where discussions of a literary character are held; for the publishing of the Alumnae News, which forms a bond between all graduates, both foreign and local; and for the carrying on of the University Settlement.

The meeting yesterday afternoon was a very large one—nearly one hundred met in the R. V. C. Interesting features of the meeting were the committees appointed to arrange for the Christmas festivities for the Children of the Settlement, and a resolution moved by Miss Hurlbatt, seconded by Mrs. Fry, and forwarded to the Chairman of the McGill Campaign fund to the effect that the Alumnae Society sent its congratulations and expressed its profound sympathy with the campaign, also its regrets that, since the Society was pledged to give its financial support exclusively to the Settlement, it was not possible for the Alumnae as a body to send any contribution to the campaign. It was noted in the brief discussion that followed that, in supporting the Settlement, the Alumnae felt that it was helping the University. For when Dr. Barclay spoke at the Canadian Club the other day he made special mention of the University Settlement and his remarks met with enthusiastic applause. After some transaction of business and the exchange of socialities, the Society proceeded to its programme—A paper by Miss Cameron, entitled, "Some New Books on an Old Theme." This was really a discussion of some recent feminist literature—such as Olive Schreiner's "Women and Labour," Ellen Key's "Love and Marriage," Annette Meakin's "Women in Transition." The thread of the paper proceeded from some remarks on John Stuart Mill's pamphlet of fifty years ago—"The Subjection of Women" in which he made a plea that women would speak for themselves and say what they wanted. It is only within the last few years that there has been much response to this. The lecturer pointed out that some of the recent books—not only these, but many modern novels and poetry in France and England—have answered this request in various ways, passing through all the types from the subtle psychology of some of the new novels to the shrill insistence of the militant suffragettes. The question of Woman's Suffrage is only a detail of the wide question of what part women are to take in modern life and how far they can reconcile public duties and the practice of professions with the domestic interests which must always be safeguarded. The lecturer showed that some of these new books are merely the expression of a grievance, and give little help to the solution of the problem. Some of them, like Olive Schreiner's "Women and Labour," make a strong and very effectively expressed plea for the opening of all fields of work to women, but it should be noted that a plea like this, even if it met with a full response, does not settle all the problems which present themselves. But Olive Schreiner fails to meet the difficulties, both those which lie outside the Province of Labour, and those which are occasioned by the mere fact that the entrance of women into the labour-market, the complications of the labour market itself and the possible injury to the physique of women.

The book which deals most comprehensively and in the largest spirit in the whole question is that called "Love and Marriage"—a translation from the Swedish of Ellen Key. This book is probably the most important contribution yet made to what is called the feminist question, or feminist literature. It deals with the whole question of the woman's place—what she can attempt, and the dangers involved in all experiments. It asks boldly for reforms in the laws of marriage and divorce and for a great measure of freedom for the individual. It was pointed out that the views in this book, which may seem startling, are not singular, but have been set forth in various forms by many modern writers. Some are almost exactly paralleled in the work of playwrights like Brieux in France and Bernard Shaw in England. A great many of these views, in fact, are held by modern thinkers, though not always so courageously expressed.

Among other literature glanced at in this survey was the much-discussed essay of Dr. MacPhail on the American Woman.

In summing up the message contained in these various books, the lecturer observed that one result was, perhaps, that in some measure there was a response to the request of John Stuart Mill, but what was of more practical value to a gathering such as that present, was that we had found some food for thought, some hints that might be valuable in the vexed question of education. It was noted that all the writers referred to emphasized the necessity of work of some kind for women, and the training of the intelligence. It was seen that any presentation of the subject should admit that there are a great many problems still to be met, and that the greatest consideration probably for the women of the present day and the future was a large measure of courage—not always courage to endure, but the courage to break traditions and initiate new movements.

The final message was quoted from the book of Ellen Key, a motto for women, which was: "Courage for herself, sympathy for others." At the close of the meeting it was requested by one of the members that the paper should be printed in the Alumnae News. The Alumnae News, under the direction of an editorial board which consists of Miss Hurlbatt, Mrs. H. S. Williams, Mrs. George MacDonald and Miss Brower, is published twice every year—in April and November. The April number contains a full list of the women graduates with their addresses and every number contains besides several articles, items of news concerning scattered graduates.

MADAME X
AT THE PRINCESS

LARGE AUDIENCE GREATLY PLEASED WITH EXCELLENT PERFORMANCES

Henry W. Savage has sent us an all-round excellent production of Bissen's sensation of several seasons, Madame X. The drama is built along entirely conventional lines, very simple in plot, but intense in its action. During the trial scene in the last act the women keep drying their eyes and the men were continually swallowing lumps that persisted in rising in their throats. The scene itself is intensely heart-rending and those who took part were quite equal to it. Foremost among them was Adelaide Dunlop, who portrayed the character of the unfortunate woman to absolute perfection. She did not give much promise in the prolog but improved remarkably toward the latter part of the play. Harry Mainhall as Raymond Floriot distinguished himself in his address to the jury at the conclusion of which the large audience burst into loud applause, which lasted several minutes. Byron Douglas was inadequate as Louis Floriot. He should be reminded that the day of the ranting and striding actor is long past and that it would be best for him to try to adapt himself to modern methods of stage deportment. Edwin Forsberg portrayed Larouge in a finished manner, while R. Patton Gibbs was too much of a Yankee to make a good Frenchman, otherwise he was thoroughly capable. Taken as a whole both production and performance were of a high standard and the play is well worth seeing.

THE ORPHEUM

The headliner at the Orpheum for the week is a delightful two act play by Sir W. S. Gilbert called "Sweethearts." The story centres around supposedly unrequited love. The first act is laid far back in the early Victorian period. A young man comes to bid farewell to his sweetheart before going to India. The second act shows him back once more after many years oblivious of the woman he once loved. At last he chances to meet her in the old garden and once more the love of yesterday is rekindled.

Josephine Davis makes quite a hit with her songs and was repeatedly called on for encores. Her interpretations of the Pink Lady seemed to take very much with the audience, likewise her Italian and negro songs. "The Butterfly" is a rather amusing sketch based on stage life. A father, watchful for the welfare of his son, finds his one and only has fallen into the snare set by an actress. Amusing things happen when the father interviews the actress and tries to purchase with money his son's freedom.

Little Billy, though only a child (?) makes a decided hit. He is extremely good. His voice is decidedly childish and quite in keeping with his songs.

The Heyn Brothers have some very clever tricks in the way of hand-balancing.

Ma McVilvie and Robt. Higgins in "Just a Little Fun" are most amusing and particularly free from suggestions.

Willie Weston and Willie Eckstein provide some very good musical numbers.

Paper by Miss Jessie MacDonald.

February—Lecture—Subject and Lecturer to be announced later.

March—Poetry and Freedom—Paper by Miss Oakeley (to be read by Deputy).

April—To be arranged later.

May—Business meeting and reception to graduates of 1912.

THE THEATRE ROYAL

This week the management of the Royal is staging T. W. Dunin's "Tiger Lilies," in two barresques, entitled "O'Day Abroad," and "Lovefinger." The first of these features, the troubles of a German and an Irishman at a French sea-side resort, at which is also staying a woman, the wife of the German and former wife of the Irishman. Matt Kennedy, as the retired Irish brick-maker, makes a hit with the audience and is one of the best Irish comedians seen at the Royal for some time. Clara Gibson as Mlle. Peachette also scores heavily with her singing and dancing; this act concludes with a parody on "H. M. S. Pinafore," which keeps the audience in roars of laughter. In the old Florence McCloud gives some good songs, as does Jim Doherty and Terrill and Simon have a clever musical act.

In the second act there is presented a satire on the country school, in which Matt Kennedy is the principal fun-maker. In this Clara Gibson makes a great hit singing "Save All Your Kisses for Me," being recalled again and again. On the whole the programme is excellent.

PRINCIPAL RETURNS FROM U. S.

McGILL WELCOMES BACK DR. PETERSON FROM HIS SOJOURN IN THE SOUTH—A RINGING NOTE OF IMPERIALISM STRUCK IN EVERY AD-RESS

Principal Peterson has returned from his American pilgrimage, and if we by this time have been able to comprehensively assimilate his principles, he has insinuated into every Canadian Club he has addressed the spirit of ringing Imperialism for which he has become famous in Canada. His task has been a worthy one, to spur those loyal Canadian societies into a realization of Canada's stand, upon the great question, the issue of which is looked upon with so much interest in the States.

The Principal addressed the Canadian Club of New York, the Latin Club of New York. He presided over and addressed "The Carnegie Foundation," an organization to further the interests of retired professors, and also the Canadian Club of Harvard. In every case he struck a chord whose note of ringing Imperialism will do much to correct public opinion throughout the South.

McGill is proud of her Principal, and Canada can well be proud of a man, who so well represents the loftier and nobler feelings which we hope can be called characteristic of her people. Such a pilgrimage as the one from which Dr. Peterson has so lately returned does much to make McGill's influence a powerful one all over the continent. In every ringing syllable which Dr. Peterson uttered, McGill, which he always represents, was speaking.

Our University stands as the cosmopolitan educational institution of Canada, drawing her students from every quarter of the globe. A blow for Imperialism, struck by McGill, or by the representative of McGill, falls with two-fold force, and especially so when delivered by so able, so palpal and profoundly sincere a man as our Principal. We welcome him back with the hope that his impulsive initiative may take him upon many another such journey, to carry the "good word" and make the influence of Old McGill felt among our American brother students.

OPERATION SUCCESSFUL

Late last night it was learned that Mr. W. Eric Warburton, Med. '16, who was operated on for appendicitis yesterday morning was resting easily, the operation having been a complete success. Mr. Warburton entered the hospital Monday afternoon.
